

Tennis Tournament
Starts Next Saturday

PLAYING TO BEGIN PROMPTLY AT 2 O'CLOCK—ALL MATCHES TO BE DEFINITELY SCHEDULED—ENTRIES MUST BE IN BEFORE 6 P. M. FRIDAY, JULY 2.

Members of the Narberth Tennis Association—Attention!

The annual Fourth of July Tournament for men's doubles and consolation doubles starts next Saturday afternoon, July 3, at 2 o'clock.

Have you and your team mate entered? If not, send your entries immediately to A. J. Newell, chairman of the Tournament Committee, or to either of the other two members, W. J. Kirkpatrick and A. C. Staples.

Already a number of teams have entered and there is every indication that the Tournament will be the largest and most hotly contested mid-summer event in the history of the Association. There are quite a number of new combinations among the teams, including several that have never before taken part in any of our local contests.

There is an entrance fee of fifty cents for each player and all entries must be in the hands of the Tournament Committee not later than 6 P. M. Friday, July 2. The drawings will be made that evening and matches scheduled to begin promptly at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

All Matches to Be Scheduled.

The Tournament Committee is planning to keep the tournament moving as rapidly as possible Saturday afternoon and all day Monday, July 5, beginning at 9 A. M., and continuing until 12 o'clock, and starting again promptly at 2 o'clock and continuing until 6 P. M. In this way they expect to expedite the preliminary rounds and get well on the way toward the semi-finals by 6 o'clock Monday afternoon.

To assist in the execution of this plan the Tournament Committee has made a rule that all teams entered in the Tournament must be on the courts at Elmwood and Essex avenues by 2 o'clock next Saturday afternoon ready to play, and remain on the benches ready to be called up until 6 o'clock unless specifically released. The same rule will be in force for Monday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock and again on Monday afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock, except for the two hour noon recess. Teams or individual members of teams violating this rule, unless specifically excused by the Tournament Committee, will be defaulted.

The Committee asks the hearty cooperation of all members in carrying

Narberth Population 3704

MAIN LINE SUBURB JUMPS 106.9 PER CENT. IN LAST TEN YEARS.

Narberth has more than doubled its population in the last ten years. Preliminary population figures announced at Washington give the Main Line suburb a population of 3,704, as compared with 1,790 in 1910. This is an increase of 106.9 per cent.

City Delivery Service For Narberth

City delivery service will be established for Narberth on July First. All those patrons who have indicated their desire to have their mail delivered to their homes or places of business are urged to take necessary action to have their mail, including all papers, magazines and parcel post packages directed in the future to their STREET AND NUMBER.

All patrons who have failed to advise the postmaster as to whether they want the service or wish to retain a box in the postoffice are urged to so advise promptly.

About five hundred of the post office boxes are to be removed from the office on June 30th.

Well, Here We Are,
Folks, 3704 Strong!

ANNOUNCEMENT OF 1920 CENSUS SHOWS THAT NARBERTH HAS MORE THAN DOUBLED SINCE 1910—GAIN OF 106.9%.

"Hello, Long Distance. Give me Detroit, and then give me Los Angeles. * * * Hello, Detroit, is that you? This is Kid Narberth, of the Pennsylvania Main Line, Montgomery County, State of Pennsylvania, talking. Just wanted to tell you that you're not so much with your more than 100 per cent. increase in population. 'Cause the Census Man at Washington has just given out the figures on our 1920 population, and I wish to inform you that while there were 1,790 people living in our borough in 1910, we now have 3,704 in our midst, and that's a gain of 106.9%, and we're right proud of ourselves, and we don't want you to think that you're the only 100 per centers and get all stuck up. * * *

"Yes, Central, have you Los Angeles on the wire? Well, they think they're some pumpkins, too, out there on the Pacific Coast, because they increased their population more than 100 per cent. in ten years, so just repeat that message I sent to Detroit." * * *

Or to be a little more dignified in making the statement:

Narberth has more than doubled its population in the last ten years.

Preliminary population figures announced at Washington this week give our borough a population of 3,704, as compared with 1,790 in 1910.

This is an increase of 106.9 per cent.

CHARLES S. MIRICK PASSED PEACEFULLY AWAY LAST SUNDAY AT HIS HOME ON NORTH NARBERTH AVE.—A MAN WHOM IT WAS A REAL PLEASURE TO HAVE KNOWN.

Narberth lost one of its finest men last Sunday in the death of Charles S. Mirick, of Narberth and Woodbine avenues. He had been confined to his home for a little more than a year as the result of a stroke of apoplexy, and passed peacefully away last Sunday noon.

The funeral services were held at his late residence Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, and were conducted by Rev. Avery S. Demmy, pastor of the Baptist Church of the Evangel, assisted by Rev. Dr. Rowland, of Philadelphia. Interment was at Mt. Moriah Cemetery.

Mr. Mirick, who was in his 70th year, was a member of the Church of the Evangel and is survived by one daughter, Mrs. William S. Horner, and one son, Charles E. Mirick. He was also a member of the Mercantile Library Chess Club of Philadelphia.

The son of a well-known Baptist clergyman, Mr. Mirick after graduating from Bucknell University, engaged in the newspaper and printing business. Later when he came to Philadelphia he became associated with several large printing houses.

For more than thirty years Mr. Mirick was directly and indirectly connected with the Curtis Publishing Company, and was intimately acquainted with Cyrus H. K. Curtis, the publisher. At the time Mr. Curtis started the Ladies' Home Journal he had no printing plant of his own and the Journal was printed by the concern where Mr. Mirick was employed as the manager of the composing room. Mr. Curtis is still a very active man, but in those days he was particularly active, for he was his entire "advertising department" as well as business manager and office boy.

"Our composing room was on one of the upper floors of our building," Mr. Mirick used to say in telling the story of his early acquaintance with Mr. Curtis, "and we had no elevator

Editorial

To the Editor of Our Town:

The death of Charles S. Mirick removes one of the oldest employees of the Curtis Publishing Company, of Philadelphia, and a resident of Narberth since 1911; in fact, before the creation of the present company, he was connected with a firm which printed the "Ladies' Home Journal." Later he entered the composing department of the Curtis Company, and when the "Post" was taken over he became its manuscript editor, continuing the work until a year ago, when laid aside by a stroke.

He was a lover of chess, and almost daily, after office hours, he might be found in the chess room of the Mercantile Library, on 10th street, playing with members of his club. It did not seem like recreation to go from one mental work to another, but it was the form he preferred and in which he took most delight. It was while so engaged that the stroke came. During the days of confinement at home it gave him great comfort to have old chessmates drop in and play a friendly game.

After the days of slow recovery of strength he was able to walk about the room, descend the stairs with help, sit on the porch, visit friends in a wheel chair, and take auto rides. He learned to use a typewriter with his left hand and enjoyed sending chatty, cheerful notes to his friends. He was hopeful of a visit to New England hills, where he had been before, but his family began to note a waning of his strength, an increasing weakness, till on Sunday noon, June 20, he passed quietly away. As Dr. Grenfell said of an old friend: "We miss him, but we know he has only gone out into the sunshine." W. H. C.

Narberth Wins Again in Main Line League

Today, at the High School grounds, Bryn Mawr will play the local boys and "Iron Man" Stites will pitch. A large crowd is expected.

Cub's Weekly Letter

To the Editor of Our Town:

It was with great pride I read in last week's Fireside Column that our famous Burgess had been exhibiting himself to the admiring gaze of the people of the Middle West. And now we know who was responsible for Harding's nomination. Much was explained in your little paragraph.

Have you noticed that traffic sign at the juncture of Narberth and Haverford avenues? It is placed in the middle of the roadway at that very narrow point. As I understand, Councils will offer a prize for the man who can so manipulate a car that it will hit neither the sign nor the sidewalk when trying to turn.

Did it ever occur to you what a grand advantage a dentist has over a barber? When a barber hands out a line of talk to his victims there's nothing to prevent the latter answering and in those days. We had one of those old-fashioned iron spiral stairways which are more or less difficult to climb even if you take each step carefully. But Mr. Curtis used to run up those winding steps as though he were sort of popped out of a gun; slap down a handful of copy for advertisements for the next issue of the Home Journal and tell us to set up the type, and then disappear down that stairway almost as fast as a fireman sliding down the fire pole to answer an alarm. He was soliciting his own advertisements in those days, and he had a lot of ground to cover, and business wasn't coming as easy in those days as it has in later years."

Later when the Curtis Company established its own printing plant Mr. Curtis engaged Mr. Mirick as superintendent of the Curtis composing room. After filling that position for a number of years Mr. Mirick joined the editorial staff of the Saturday Evening Post, and from then on until he was stricken a little over a year ago, he edited most of the stories and articles that appeared in the Post. He was regarded by George Horace Lorimer, the editor of the Post, as not only an authority on English, but an unusually able, thorough and conscientious editor.

Mr. Mirick was one of the best chess players in Philadelphia. He had been a member of the Mercantile Library Chess Club for many years and was a keen student of the game. He participated in several of the series of matches played by the various chess champions of this and other countries against groups of the best players in Philadelphia, and on several occasions he won from the champions and he also had two or three draws to his credit. He was deeply interested in astronomy and was regarded as quite an amateur authority on the subject.

Affectionately known to his folks and his intimate friends as "Poppy," Mr. Mirick was one of those quiet but withal genial souls of whom there are only too few in this world. He was kindly and friendly and brought a great deal of brightness and happiness into the lives of many people. He will be missed, but he will also be remembered as a man whom it was well worth while to have known, and whose kindly, genial friendship meant more in the fellowship of man than any mere material achievement or accomplishment.

Introduction of Letter Carriers

Narberth which is bounded by the Railroad, Wynnewood avenue, Montgomery avenue to Essex avenue, and both sides of Essex. He also takes in both Wayne and Price avenues, as far east as Narberth avenue.

Mr. Frank Englehart has the south side of the Railroad, Anthwyn Farms, Haverford avenue from Forest east to Montgomery avenue, including Shirley road.

Mr. Charles E. Officer will serve all the remaining streets of the north side, including Brookhurst avenue section.

Those patrons who have neglected to answer the Postmaster's questionnaire are urged to do so at once, that the carriers' route books may be completed with all residents' names and their correct street addresses. The carriers, being new men in Narberth, they should have the street and numbers correctly given in every case. All the people of Narberth who have accepted or expect to take advantage of free delivery service are expected to have their mail of all classes directed hereafter to street and number.

Notes.

The letter carriers have been selected, and all we can say at this time is that they appear to be three fine fellows.

The mail will be delivered to all homes and business places, who have provided receptacles, beginning Thursday morning, July first.

Narberth is divided into three carrier routes. The north side is divided by Essex avenue. Mr. Hall will be carrier for the west section, Mr. Officer will take care of the east section, and Mr. Englehart the south side of Railroad.

out their program, which they believe will make for a much more spirited and interesting tournament, and at the same time make the playing decidedly more enjoyable for players as well as spectators.

Remember, now, members of the Tennis Association—if you haven't entered, don't delay; get your entry in the hands of the Tournament Committee immediately—if you haven't a partner get one—and be on hand at the courts, next Saturday afternoon, July 3, not a minute after 2 o'clock.

calling him any name they like, should they have reason to believe that he is stretching the truth. A dentist, on the other hand, as I was thinking while in Dr. Hartley's chair the other day, has a cinch. First he puts your head in a vise, then he stuffs a block of wood and a monkey wrench or two in your mouth. As though you didn't have troubles enough, he then begins to spin his yarns. What chance have you to protest? None, perhaps, excepting to write to the paper about it.

Doesn't that beautiful oak tree, corner of Narberth and Chestnut, keep company with the most wonderful variety of rubbish you ever saw? That's the place we show to visitors, pointing with pride to the tree, which is the finest specimen of its kind within many miles. Perhaps our friends are so dazzled by the grand sight that they do not notice that it is located in the middle of a dump. Let's hope so, anyway. It occurs to me, however, that there's an ordinance prohibiting dumping in our fair city.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Millang, of Elmhurst, L. I., and their three weeks' old son are rustinating at the Moyer homestead on Chestnut avenue. Mrs. Millang, as most of us remember, was Miss Elizabeth Miller, of hereabouts. Her son, Frank Moyer Millang, when asked his impressions of Narberth, merely smiled, indicating that he was favorably impressed.

NARBERTH GROWN VEGETABLES.

HOME GARDENS ARE URGED.

City Dwellers Asked to Combat Threatened Food Shortage.

Harrisburg, June 15.—Cultivation of vacant lots and backyards by city dwellers this summer is urged by Fred Rasmussen, Secretary of the State Department of Agriculture, who says the need for Victory gardens is as great this year as in 1918.

The Secretary urges city dwellers to utilize every foot of ground available. Prof. J. G. Sanders, Director of the Bureau of Plant Industry, supplements the appeal of Secretary Rasmussen with one to raise crops which can be held over for use next winter.

Late potatoes, beets, cabbage, turnips, celery, snap beans and sweet corn are recommended for cultivation as a means of helping to alleviate the threatened food shortage next winter. —Evening Public Ledger, June 15th.

There are many little patches in and about Narberth that might be put to pleasant and profitable use by planting vegetables.

Tomatoes this summer will sell for 10 cents apiece; other vegetables also at the highest prices.

Beat the H. C. of L. and enjoy yourself—the country needs a greater production—you can help. Plant for health and wealth and be a better American.

Fraternity— An Americanism

By S. ROBERT ROSS.

Off they started, fluttering joyfully from lip to brain, on and on through the world. Years passed, when one day found the frivolous and jealous one slowly returning to the rendezvous. It had learned, gradually, that the world had less and less use for it—so in weary, long stages it came back as had been agreed.

Arriving at the place where its journey had been begun years and years before, it made itself as comfortable as possible to await the return of its former companion.

Much to its surprise, it found that its comfort was much disturbed because the old home was filled now with more worth while thoughts, coming and going constantly, and it had no peace. Merely being there, in the way, as it were, it caused much turmoil and strife.

and yet it must needs await its former companion.

Several times, to relieve the monotony and in an effort to locate the other thought, it had started out again, but it had soon returned, after finding only coolness and indifference, where before it had received a warm welcome. So, each time it has returned to wait—and it is still waiting! The other thought never will get back! The world needs it and cannot do without it, because wherever it lights it always leaves a gift of vigorous purpose and is being passed on in gladness to be passed on again.

Which thoughts shall we send out to see the world? Surely, the kindly, generous, helping, fraternal thoughts. The kind of thoughts that are constructive—the kind of thoughts that are American. Surely, we do not wish our thoughts to return to us useless things, to loaf around, only taking up the room of more worth while things. Think a thought—act its import within your Post and watch where it will go. It will be free—you can't recall it—but it will go on and on and work its benefit throughout the world. Its first importance may not appear to you—the humble, reticent thought, the unassuming, bashful thought may be one which some day will move the world.

Your town, your State, your country, your world are awaiting fraternal thoughts today, and the thoughts you think with just a little effort back of it may start a constructive fraternity which may be just the needed thing that relieves the present difficulty.

Let us awaken within ourselves that capability which we all possess to help improve ourselves, to help our friends, to help our neighbors, to help our town—that capability, in short, which strengthens our fraternal touch with everyone with whom we come in contact. Is not that a development of Americanism? Is not that a healthful germ of fraternity? Can you not see it growing and developing from you through your bigger selves to your neighbor, into your town, and widening out, spreading its influence into your country—it overflows into your State, and before long your country is urged with it, and there you are, the little thought which you thought, a little way back, or long ago, has become a national monument for the world to see and profit by.

That is merely your earnestness of attitude as an individual—now compound that attitude with the reciprocal attitude of each person who touches another and see the wonderful results of one small effort—it is a beautiful, magnificent Americanism.

The greatest ideal in the history of the human race, which has just come to be a realized power for world fraternity, is the League of Nations. In the conception of this organization of Nations is a practical striving towards the fraternity of the world—at one time it was a mere thought.

I am confident that, in the working out of the ideals which the League of Nations has before it, there will be perfected in this world tribunal a successful agency toward the ultimate—fraternity, world peace, world brotherhood—world Americanism. And at one time each one of these ideals was a mere thought starting out to see the world.

I ask you who are listening to me to start out a few thoughts concentrated on local fraternity—local Americanism. Start them off and give them a good push upward and then lend a hand to push the other fellows' thoughts. And then—every one just keep on pushing. This kind of fraternal, concerted action is bound to produce results, because it has as its motive-power the Americanism of adherence to an American ideal.

All of you, in your country's service, have stood retreat—has any one of you gone through that ceremony without the deepest emotions? Personally, I never lost the nervous chill which accompanies intense reverence. Always as the flag came slowly down, with the band playing our national anthem, or with the bugles sounding retreat, I have felt wonderfully uplifted on a wave of pride in the gladness that I am an American and in the joy of my adherence to the ideals of Americanism. But, did I—did you—leave the big thing of that emotion on the parade ground as you marched away—the big thing that our red, white and blue stands for?

To be truly American is not to gloat in selfish joy and pride over the emotions one can sense under the urge of some symbolic ceremony—but rather in permitting those emotions to persuade us to a larger and more generous, active fraternity, to the accomplishment of a greater, broader and world-influencing Americanism.
